Farmers To Receive Questionnaires

Some farmers throughout the state and nation during the first week of June will find a card in their mail box on which they are requested to report the number of livestock on farms. The purpose of these cards is to secure information which will enable the Department of Agriculture to estimate the spring pig crop, milk production, the number of lambs saved, and the number of chickens and turkeys raised. This survey has now been made for more than 25 years and has provided accurate information on livestock trends, which has helped farmers to more efficiently plan their livestock production and to market it in an orderly manner.

R. B. Hudgins, county agent, urges each farmer in Appomattox County who receives one of these cards to fill it out and return to his mail carrier, who will forward these cards to the Department of Agriculture in Richmond. A number of reports are needed to give accurate information. Individual reports are kept confidential and only county and state totals will be published.
